

PLANET FITNESS SERIAL NUMBER LOCATION

For the three units that are normally stocked at a Planet Fitness location, the serial numbers are detailed below. Serial numbers from newer models that start with ABS are bar code readable. Please note that older units starting with the letters SW are not bar-code readable. Units produced prior to late 2020 may share serial numbers as they represent batch numbers rather than unique identification numbers. Beginning in 2021, production runs will assign each unit a unique serial number.

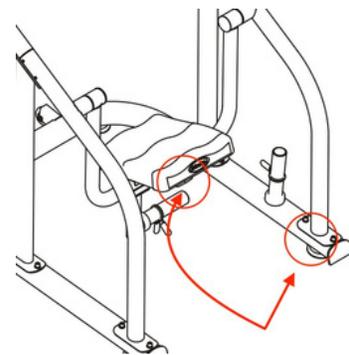

AbsBench X2

The sticker with the serial number should be located on the top of the front foot, up underneath the main support for the back pad, or on the bottom of the Leg Curl swing arm in the case of much older units.

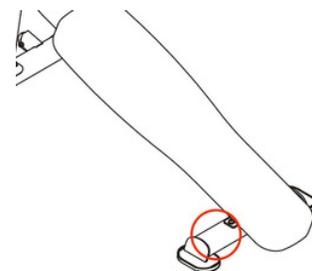

AbCoaster CTL

The sticker with the serial number will be located on the inside edge of the U base frame or under the faceplate on newer models (these can be identified by having metal end caps that have been welded on). Older models will have their sticker on the bottom of the seat mount plate (for models with hard plastic frame end caps).

Target Abs

The sticker with the serial number should be located on the front foot near the head of the user, or along the underside of the back support bar.

In the event you are unable to locate the serial number please feel free to send a picture of where you believe the serial number should be, and a picture of the entire unit to Parts@TheAbsCompany.com and we will be happy to assist you in determining the make and model of your unit (to ensure proper parts ordering based on the Serial Number prefix).
